

Cleveland's Home for Dramatic Writers

A new theater company, Playwrights Local 4181, is seeking rehearsal spaces and performance venues in the Cleveland area.

The mission of PL4181 is to produce all-new, all-locally written plays beginning in Fall 2015. (See their website at <http://playwrightslocal.org/>).

Flexible about types and locations of spaces, and are open to temporary situations. Contact David Todd at dtodd@playwrightslocal.org

Artists Looking for Space

- Artist/chef looking for a live/works space with a kitchen large enough to cater events and do artwork.
- JakPrints employee needs a small studio to do graphic design, pet portraits and animal paintings.
- Looking for live/work loft space to do art in the form of furniture. Basic welding and woodworking. Any help would be appreciated.

Where are they now? Checking In on Artist Inquiries

- Meng-Hsuan Wu, Cleveland Foundation Creative Fusion visual artist from Taiwan, found a studio in the E. 185th Street community. She is working at Rainey Institute on a variety of visual arts projects.

Sculptor Julie Schenkelberg took a studio in Grand Rapids,

Michigan. " I haven't settled on where to go next, which could still be Cleveland in a few years. Right now I am working in an artist collective in Michigan." <http://site-lab.org>

• Graphic Designer Megan Shalala is currently living in Eastlake with her boyfriend . She works at US Marketing & Design. "Thank you for checking in...it made me stop and appreciate where I am today and where I was when I needed my 'own space' to create. I have found some confidence and can create anywhere!"
